

Language Learning and Musical Activities

June 2019 workshops - information

In these Saturday morning sessions, we aim to show what a powerful tool music can be in language learning, especially when we look beyond the lyrics of songs, and tap into the rhythm, the melody, and the tempo of the music.

Starting with an overview of the activities in the activity book, we will discuss (and demonstrate) how we can help our learners develop:

- active listening skills
- more fluent pronunciation
- better memory strategies
- greater grammatical accuracy
- awareness of pragmatic features of the language
- group cohesion and a more inclusive learning environment

Teachers of any language are welcome, but please be aware that the examples are drawn from English.

The sessions start at 9.30; please arrive a little earlier for refreshments and introductions. We will finish at 12.00. There will be a mid-morning break with tea and coffee provided.

The fee of £55.00 is payable in advance, and includes refreshments and a copy of the book 'Language Learning and Musical Activities' to take away, as well as access to all the online resources.
