

Language Learning and Musical Activities

1st February 2020: workshop information

This Saturday morning session is a chance to explore how powerful a tool music can be in language learning, especially when we look beyond the lyrics of songs, and tap into the rhythm, the melody, and the tempo of the music.

Venue:

Lewisham Adult Learning, Brockley Rise Centre,
2 Brockley Rise, Forest Hill, London, SE23 1PR

Time: 10.00 – 12.45

Starting with an overview of the activities in the activity book, we will discuss (and demonstrate) how we can help our learners develop:

- active listening skills
- more fluent pronunciation
- better memory strategies
- greater grammatical accuracy
- awareness of pragmatic features of the language
- group cohesion and a more inclusive learning environment

Teachers of any language are welcome, but please be aware that the examples are drawn from English language teaching.

The session starts at 10.15, but please arrive a little earlier for refreshments and introductions. We will finish at 12.45. There will be a mid-morning break, and tea and coffee will be available from the on-site café.

The fee of £60.00 is payable in advance, and includes a copy of the book 'Language Learning and Musical Activities' to take away, as well as access to all the online resources.
